

- CURRENT ISSUE
- FEATURES
- REVIEWS
- BACK ISSUES
- FAQS
- NEWS
- SHOWS
- LINKS

Fugo
Aie
(Engineer)

by Dan McClernon

Alright, I'll admit to having some reservations about this band. For one, they rattle off a sizable number of excellent bands that they refer to as influences and two, the first song is sung in what I believe is French (ugh!) But don't fret, by song two, everything is set for a Post-Hardcore explosion, where Fugo creates a sound that is somewhere in between Fugazi and Quicksand, and nearly just as inventive stylistically as these two premier acts. While it may be a bit too arty and quirky for many of you out there, if you're looking for something genuinely different from the pack, you won't have to listen to hard to find that here.

JOIN OUR MAILING LIST

Subscribe

LIST

- OTHER :
- WINGE
 - HORRO
 - ZINE P
 - 1" FULL
 - FUN B/

© 2004-2005 Under the Volcano. All rights reserved | Site design by Dawson Design & Illustration

still living under a punk rock